

Griffith Park Lecture Series

Thursday, August 11, 2011

Dan Cooper Major Mammals of Griffith Park

Griffith Park is home to the City's greatest concentration of native fauna within urbanized Los Angeles. Ecologist Dan Cooper, Scientific Director of the Griffith Park Natural History Survey, focuses on the habits of Griffith Park's predator species: bobcats, coyotes, grey fox, raccoons, and even mountain lion, discussing the natural habitat and prey animals that nourish and sustain them and how humans can help in their continued existence.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. Lecture begins at 6:45 p.m.

Los Feliz Branch

Los Angeles Public Library, 1874 Hillhurst
at the corner of Franklin Ave. Tel: (323) 913-4710

This free lecture series is generously supported by Friends of Griffith Park.

Please register at lfeliz@lapl.org to receive information about future lectures and events